“THIS IS THE CAUSE OF OUR LIFE: that we have Christ dwelling within our carnal selves through the flesh, and we shall live through Him in the same manner as He lives through the Father.”
Saint Hilary of Poitiers († 360 A.D.)
Welcome, Bishop Ignatius Wang!

Next Saturday, March 2, we look forward to the Mass of Confirmation with the 8th grade students of our parish, celebrated by The Most Reverend Ignatius Chung Wang, retired auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of San Francisco.

Bishop Wang (pronounced Wong) was born in Beijing, China in 1934, the fifth of eight children in a family that had been Christian for 12 generations. He attended Catholic schools and began his studies to become a priest at the Regional Seminary in Hong Kong. He was ordained a priest in 1959 in Hong Kong at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi. After his ordination, Fr. Wang was unable to serve in China because of the Communist government. He was sent to Rome where he completed a doctorate in Canon Law in 1962. Unable to return to China, he took an assignment on the Caribbean Island of Grenada, where he served as a parish priest and Vicar General of the Diocese of St. George.

In 1974, Fr. Wang moved to San Francisco to be near his widowed sister, who had small children and was in poor health. When his sister died of cancer, Bishop Wang became guardian of her children. Read more about him by going here: https://www.sfarchdiocese.org/bishop-ignatius-c-wang

All are Welcome!
Dear friends in Christ,

Wow. Jesus does not make it easy to truly follow him. Our “natural” human instincts are turned upside down and we, like Pope Saint John Paul II, are called to pardon even those who attack us (he visited his would-be assassin in prison and forgave him). We are told to love our enemies, and to do good to those who hate us. This is not normal, this does not come naturally, but can only happen with the supernatural grace from the Risen Lord himself forming and transforming and reforming our souls over and over again, as we age.

For some Christians, this seems to come more easily than for others. I had a dear friend in the seminary, much older than I, who was rather volcanic with his opinions and outbursts, but who never held a grudge. In those days, I believed it was unchristian to be angry, ever, and tried to please everyone. However, when someone hurt me, it seemed to linger in my soul for ages. He once confronted me in a very healthy way: “Get over it! Don’t carry that around with you!” And he was right.

Our Church is going through a very rough time on countless fronts. Think of the children who have been abused and then ignored, or the people who find change very difficult and want to go back to the imaginary “good old days” when everything was black and white, or the Catholics who want the Church to change everything right here and now (e.g., ordination of women, moral theology, open Communion, etc.). Think of those who no longer come to Mass because they were treated rudely by a pastor, or because they are disgusted by the abuse of power. Think of those who harbor resentment in their hearts like a heavy rock. Think of the many who feel depressed and hopeless due to the crises in our world regarding pollution, violence, corruption in government, and the lack of willingness to share resources with people who have nothing.

Read. Read from the Bible. Read what the Catechism of the Catholic Church has to say about issues that trouble you. Read news sources you disagree with, along with those whom you find palatable. We need input not only from those who reinforce our opinions and biases, but also from those who might shake us up, as Jesus shook up the people he met and loved.

Pray. Pray ancient forms you memorized long ago. Pray spontaneously from your heart, being honest with God about your anger, your fears, your joy, your hopes, your delight in being part of his people.

Act. Volunteer if you can, give money to worthy causes if you are able to, speak up when your loved ones tell racist jokes you find abhorrent. Reach out to newcomers in your parish, and try to reconcile with those whom you find terribly annoying. It may not work, but it is a sacred thing to try.

Jesus said to his disciples: “To you who hear I say, love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who mistreat you. Do to others as you would have them do to you. For if you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? Even sinners love those who love them. And if you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? Even sinners do the same. But rather, love your enemies and do good to them, and you will be children of the Most High, for he himself is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful. Stop judging and you will not be judged. Stop condemning and you will not be condemned. Forgive and you will be forgiven. Give, and gifts will be given to you; a good measure, packed together, shaken down, and overflowing, will be poured into your lap. For the measure with which you measure will in return be measured out to you.”

(Luke 6:27)

Father Brown
Are you or someone you love dealing with separation or divorce?
The Archdiocese strives to make known Christ’s healing love, so that all who suffer from separation and divorce might experience new life, reconciliation and restoration, meet people in a similar position and find help to rebuild their own lives.

We also recognize that separated and divorced people are not mere recipients of the Church’s compassion; they are ministers of that compassion. Through their vulnerability, suffering, courage, faithfulness, and patient endurance they bear witness to Christ and his redeeming grace in the world.

Saint Hilary School
Principal Corner

Author Matthew Kelly once said that “We all need people in our lives who raise our standards, remind us of our essential purpose, and challenge us to become the best version of ourselves.”

For five generations my family has proudly been part of the legacy of Catholic schools in which we invited people into our lives to help us to be the best versions of ourselves. As the principal I am dedicated to continuing this legacy at Saint Hilary School and am proud to be part of a faith community dedicated to student development, and offer them a place where they are known, loved and called to transform the world. As a Future-Ready Catholic school, Saint Hilary tries its best to deliver an education that prepares its students for the demands of the future while keeping Christ in the center of their lives.

We do this by creating a curriculum that stresses traditional fundamentals in an “experiential learning” environment. Experiential Learning or “Learn by Doing” has been proven to boost student engagement and retention which supports our mission to cultivate critical thinking, lifelong learning, spiritual growth, ethical discernment, creativity, and innovation.

I want to thank you for believing in our mission and trusting us to deliver the future-ready Catholic education and continuing Saint Hilary great legacy.

And, until we meet again may God keep you in the palm of his hand,

Marie Bordeleau
