Dear parishioners,

Jesus is very stern indeed today with those who like to deck themselves out with “religion” but who miss the mark when it truly comes to discipleship:

In the course of his teaching Jesus said to the crowds, “Beware of the scribes, who like to go around in long robes and accept greetings in the marketplaces, seats of honor in synagogues,
and places of honor at banquets.
They devour the houses of widows and, as a pretext recite lengthy prayers.
They will receive a very severe condemnation.”
(Mark 12:38)

This stern warning reminds me very much of our seminary rector, who during his weekly conferences would challenge us against doing things for show, or doing things for our own glory rather than for the glory of God. More recently, these words from Jesus keep reminding me of the challenges Pope Francis gives to people who consider themselves big shots, whether they are clergy or lay people. Early in his pontificate, the Holy Father was extremely blunt while addressing men preparing for service in the Vatican Diplomatic Corps:

“Careerism is a leprosy, a leprosy,” the pope said June 6, in a speech to students from the Pontifical Ecclesiastical Academy, the school for future Vatican diplomats. “Please, no careerism!” All types of priestly ministry require “great inner freedom,” the pope said, which calls for “vigilance in order to be free from ambition or personal aims, which can cause so much harm to the church.” Priests must make their priority the “cause of the Gospel and the fulfillment of the mission” entrusted to them, not self-fulfillment or public recognition, he said.

Such self-denial “may appear demanding,” the pope said, “but it will allow you, so to speak, to be and to breathe within the heart of the church.” Pope Francis warned that a papal diplomat who “doesn't go along the way of sanctity, and gets involved in so many forms, in so many kinds of spiritual worldliness, makes himself ridiculous, and everyone laughs at him...Please, don't make yourselves ridiculous,” he said. “Either be saints or go back to the diocese and be a pastor, but don’t be ridiculous in the diplomatic life, where for a priest there are so many dangers for the spiritual life.” (Catholic News Service, June 6, 2013)

We all have seen this danger, especially when a man does not receive the promotion he thinks he deserves, or the honors he imagines come with the vocation, and then turns into a bitter and angry person who tries to strike back at anyone who — in truth, or just in his imagination — has snubbed him, or failed to raise him up to the position he thought would automatically come to him. This bitterness causes a sort of schism not only between the man and his superiors, but also in the church community itself.

By contrast, working in parishes makes priests grateful for the many goodhearted people, young and old alike, who give of themselves in the service of the Gospel, and who don’t expect or demand fancy titles or parades. It is the people of the parish who serve as catechists to the priests, showing them what service looks like, whether we think of parents getting up at two in the morning to feed their babies, or families volunteering to help the homeless. This type of witness, I believe, is the sort of thing that makes God smile.

DIVORCE: The End of the World or a New Beginning?

The Archdiocese strives to make known Christ’s healing love, so that all who suffer from separation and divorce might experience new life, reconciliation and restoration, meet people in a similar position and find help to rebuild their own lives.

We also recognize that separated and divorced people are not mere recipients of the Church's compassion; they are ministers of that compassion. Through their vulnerability, suffering, courage, faithfulness, and patient endurance they bear witness to Christ and his redeeming grace in the world.

Learn about the 2018 Tax Law...and how to impact lives for generations by making a Legacy Gift. Would you like to impact lives for generations? Would you like to make an enduring investment in an Archdiocesan parish, elementary school, ministry, and/or the Archdiocese itself? Would you like to make our Catholic institutions stronger and more sustainable? You can do all of these and more by making a Legacy Gift, remembering the Church in your will or estate plan. A Legacy Gift is a contribution designated during a donor's life that will take effect at or after his or her passing. You will be a visionary and help perpetuate your parish, an Archdiocesan elementary school, ministry, and/or the Archdiocese itself. All are welcome to attend a Legacy Gift workshop on Saturday, November 17, at St. Gabriel Parish in San Francisco, 10:00 – 11:30 am. Experts will show how you may help ensure that the work of Christ continues through Legacy Planning, provide you with a better understanding of the 2018 Tax Law, and highlight the value of end-of-life strategies to you and your family. We hope to hold more of these workshops throughout the Archdiocese in the future. Parishes: if you are interested in hosting one, let us know. For more information, please contact Rod Linhares (above) or visit the Planned Giving webpage:

Eucharistic Adoration Chapel

Our Lord is waiting for you in our Eucharistic Adoration Chapel! During the 40 Days for Life, please consider bringing a friend to pray ~ 15 minutes could change a life.

As promised last week, more history about the Blessed Sacrament - Containers

As monasticism changed from solitary to community life, the custom of Fermentum was extended to the working monks. They would have the Species on their person in the fields or on a voyage. It was carried in a small receptacle (chrismal) worn bandoleer fashion, or in a tiny bag (parula) tied around the neck under the clothing. Irish and English manuscripts describe this custom used to provide the Eucharist when needed away from the home monastery. As early as 325 AD (Council of Nicea) we know that the Eucharist was also reserved in the churches, monasteries and convents. Again, the main reason was for availability for the sick and dying, and Fermentum. It was kept in a special room, just off the sanctuary, but separated from the church where Mass was offered. (Next Week: Pyx)

If you would like to sign up for a specific Holy Hour in our Eucharistic Adoration chapel. Contact Shawn Sylvia:
